INTRODUCTION

Tabling is an effective way to educate and engage your campus community about your organization and your philanthropy. To help you, here are tips and tricks to having a successful tabling event.

MESSAGE FROM THE FSL TEAM

Tabling is about forming bonds and building genuine connections. Don't be afraid to be yourself and have fun!

If you need help, reach out to your community resources for any support!
THREE KEY TABLING ELEMENTS

There are three key elements that factor into tabling: Preparation, Set up, and Practice.

01 Preparation

A tabling event can fail before it begins if you do not prepare for it. Make sure all details of your events have been planned and discussed with the entire organization. These details and expectations should be communicated to all members.

- schedule tabling dates, times, and locations weeks in advance
  - there are several steps involved in reserving space
  - arrange special needs such as electrical outlets or additional tables
- choose locations that will have the maximum number of people walking by
- OSI recommends submitting tabling request at least 5 to 7 days prior
- OSI has a limited number of tables
  - access to OSI tables is first come first serve
  - if possible, bring your own table(s)
- coordinate attire that communicates your organization's brand
  - consider wearing letters, philanthropy shirts, or professional attire
- arrive at least 20 minutes early
  - give yourself time to set up your table before people arrive
- assign tabling lead(s) that will keep those signed up to table accountable
- advertising in advance will help draw people in

02 Set up

An attractive-looking table always draws more people to it. Think about how you want to display your tabling items.

What you present is the impression that the campus and students will have of you.

- assign a set up and clean up team
  - these people will be in charge of tabling items and organizing those items
  - the set up team will arrive at least 20 minutes early
• bring key tabling items
  o this can include: canopy tent, table cloth, photos/scrapbooks/photo albums, flags, member sign in sheet, etc...
  o too many items can become disorganized
• bring items to show off your organization's personality
  o photos, videos, and awards that showcase you are great talking points
• organize your set up
  o have an area each for members' personal items, tabling paraphernalia, game/activity equipment, etc...
• create QR codes for all of your organization's social media accounts
• stay in touch
  o consider having a computer with a Google Form, a spreadsheet, or a sign-up sheet with pens to record the names and email addresses of interested students
• have a schedule of upcoming events that your organization will be involved in

Practice
This is the most important "Key Element of Tabling". If you are tabling, you must know the balance of good communication, especially with strangers who are interested in your organization.

Take the time as a group and as individuals to practice talking before your events.

Things to consider:
• know your pitch
  o this can include: your name, your major, your organization (do not use acronyms as not everyone is familiar with those), the purpose of your organization, the event you are hosting and its goal
• rehearse organization FAQs and facts
• know how you want to use marketing pieces
  o marketing pieces can include tabling items and/or your tabling event that is occurring
• know why/what you are tabling for
  o goals could include recruitment, raising funds for your philanthropy, spreading awareness on a social cause
• decide how you want people's experience to be at your tabling event
TIPS AND TRICKS TO TABLING: A GUIDE FOR ORGANIZATIONS

TABLING TIPS
How to amplify your tabling event

- Wear appropriate clothing
- Assign a member to take photos and videos of your members tabling and of your tabling event
- Add them to your future tabling photos/scrapbooks/photo albums
- Post these on your social media to draw interest
- Take a picture of the table and everyone working the table for reference next time
- Remember to keep smiling, stay positive, and always say “Thank You” to everybody that stopped by your table
- Not everyone is going to want to talk, sign-up, participate or even have the same passion as we do

How to amplify your tabling event
Stand in front of your table and engage with passersby.

Use a clean table cloth over the table.

Be enthusiastic and friendly.

Stay standing and engaged.

Make it fun.

Try pushing your table to the back of your space.

Discrete place under the table to keep supplies, look professional and inviting.

Remember to smile.

Have fun games, silly questions, group activities, and other icebreakers to draw interest, stand out, and engage people who otherwise may have ignored your table.

People are more likely to stop by if they see everyone active and enjoying their time.
Staff the table with a minimum of 2-4 members.

Give them specific roles at the table.

Give out your organization contact.

Create competitions for the team of members that connected with the most people and/or brought them to the table.

Other members should be walking around the table area meeting people and making connections too.

At least two members should generally be in front of the table and apart, facing away from each other.

Give out your organization contact.

People are less likely to engage and approach if you seem intimidating or in a conversation.

Collect contact information from interested students.

Create a shift schedule.

Rotate the member teams regularly to keep the people who are working the table fresh.

TIPS AND TRICKS TO TABLING: A GUIDE FOR ORGANIZATIONS

Failing to build a list of names with contact information for follow-up

De-valuing your brand by using cheap gimmicks to sell your organization (sex, alcohol, etc.)

Thinking that a fancy, impressive-looking table will do all the work.

Poor conversations at the table due to a lack of interpersonal skills and/or practice

Sitting/slouching behind the table, waiting for people to come to talk to you

Failing to practice the script of what you’ll say when people ask about the organization
Creating a scene and/or drawing attention through antics

Depending on the school/council/event host or someone else to do all the work for your group

Not engaging or acknowledging other organizations who are also tabling

Members “hanging out” and talking to each other, but failing to meet others

Not following up, send emails or texts to see if those who seemed interested still are

Creating a scene and/or drawing attention through antics

Crowding the table with too many members
When you are preparing to table, consider the type of event you are planning and which location works best for it. Also, consider the pros and cons for each location. Refer here for all UC Merced locations and descriptions: https://events.ucmerced.edu/search/places

OFFICE OF STUDENT INVOLVEMENT TABLING POLICIES

Registered Campus Organizations (RCO) Student groups and campus affiliates wishing to table on the UC Merced campus are required to follow the tabling procedures.

- No more than three people may staff tabling on or under the overhang of any structure. If an overhang has no sprinkler, tabling under the overhang is not permitted.

- All members must be behind or next to their designated tables. When handing out flyers or asking for sign-ups this must be done from behind or within 2 feet of the table(s). Due to traffic flow and safety concerns, people tabling may not walk up or walk around passing out flyers. Music or amplified sound is not permitted without prior Office of Student Involvement (OSI) permission.

- Larger groups may host tabling on Scholars Lane or Academic Walk. These groups are restricted to the tabling space. The areas between the planters and the fire lane are on average 10 x 10 feet and provide space for canopies and table(s). Tabling participants are required to stay behind or next to their tables. Groups or individuals are not permitted to walk up to people and hand out flyers or use clipboards for sign-ups while walking around. The Fire lane area is designated traffic flow and restricted by fire code to those wishing to go to and from classes or while conducting business.

- Tabling outside of the designated areas in front of OSI or Scholars Lane is not permitted without permission from OSI and will be reviewed on an event-by-event basis.

- The practice of barking, soliciting, or actively passing out flyers by approaching those seeking access to and from classes is not permitted at UC Merced.
